Bogdan Suceavă
Department of Mathematics
S bubnem na zaťej chodil (Czech edition of the novel 'Coming from an Off-Key Time')
Paseka, 2014

The fall of communism in Eastern Europe in 1989 marked, in one famous formulation, the "end of history." In his apocalyptic novel Coming from an Off-Key Time, Bogdan Suceavă satirizes the events in his native Romania since the violent end of the Ceausescu regime that fateful year.

Bogdan Suceavă
Department of Mathematics
Miruna, una storia (Italian edition)/in English: 'Miruna, a Tale'
Atmosphere Libri, 2014

A village in the Carpathian Mountains, one of the last outposts of pre-modernity, an elderly man, sensing his time is short, tells his young grandchildren tales that weave a family saga covering the real history from the 1870s to the time of the telling.

POLLAK LIBRARY

Patricia Prestinary

Theology and California: Theological Refractions on California’s Culture
Ashgate Publishing Company, 2014

Exploring California as a theological place, this book renders critical engagement with significant phenomena and theological impulses within major California cultural icons. Harnessing theology's unique conceptual tools, through reflection, assessment, and critique, this volume ascertains the significance of various empirical data that no other qualitative methodological California study has done.
Between the 1860’s and the 1920’s, Chicago’s working-class immigrants designed the American dream of home ownership.

This book explores the shaping of that dream and the roots of America’s suburbanization in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries, showing how Chicagoans helped form America’s urban sprawl.

Robert McClain
Department of History
Gender and Violence in British India: The Road to Amritsar, 1914-1919
Palgrave Macmillan, 2014

This text argues that both colonial power and resistance to it were linked by an alchemy of gender and violence, i.e., rival constructions of masculinity were the key element in not only preserving imperial power, but also challenging it.

Carter Rakovski
Department of Sociology
Caring on the Clock
Rutgers University Press, 2015

Caring on the Clock includes twenty-two original essays that examine the history of the paid care sector in America, reveal why paid-care work can be both personally fulfilling but also make workers vulnerable to burnout, emotional fatigue, physical injuries, and wage exploitation.

Linda Kay Stanton
Department of English, Comparative Literature, and Linguistics
Shakespeare’s ‘Whores’: Erotics, Politics, and Poetics
Palgrave Macmillan, 2014

This book explores Shakespeare’s treatment of female sexuality, Venus-associated ‘erotics,’ as mediated by the ‘politics’ determined in particular works’ ‘poetics’ (genres, imagery, symbols), analyzing female characters’ means of circumventing the label of sexually disparaging terms, particularly the name ‘whore,’ as they strive to prove themselves as more than ‘that name.’

J. Chris Westgate
Department of English, Comparative Literature, and Linguistics
Staging the Slums, Slumming the Stage: Class, Poverty, Ethnicity, and Sexuality in American Theatre, 1890-1916
Palgrave Macmillan, 2014

Drawing on traditional archival research, reception theory, cultural histories of slumming, and recent work in critical theory on literary representations of poverty, Westgate argues that the productions of slum plays served as enactments of the emergent definitions of the slum and the corresponding ethical obligations involved therein.
