Join Us for the Faculty Development Center’s Annual Teaching Showcase Day

High-Impact Practices from a Faculty Perspective

Monday, March 14, 2016, Pollak Library South 240

Learn from your fellow faculty about their strategies and successes with service learning, global learning, writing courses, collaborative projects, and more. Plus learn how you can turn your teaching efforts into publications!

“I have learned that having students perform high impact practices studying real life situations is the best way to help them understand race and class diversity.”

“. . .the greatest lesson learned is the power of relationships and connection.”

“The study abroad experience yielded not only academic gains, but also personal growth, and a tangible change in perception of the world, of self, and of others.”
